

How do you cure a cold in your country?

Hey everyone, when you catch a cold, what remedies do you use to cure it?

①

- Get plenty of sleep
- Drink plenty of liquids
- Take medicine

Those things are generally the same everywhere. In Japan we eat rice porridge and drink hot water with ginger. A rare remedy is to tie onions around your neck to relieve soreness in your throat. What is thought to be a "good" remedy varies from country to country.

Really? For example what?

②

For example, in many countries such as Argentina, Greece, and the USA, when people have a sore throat, they put honey or lemon juice in hot tea.

In France we squeeze a lemon into a glass with honey and rum and pour in hot water. After drinking it we quickly go to sleep.

③

In Mexico we often drink Gorodorobo tea.

In Hong Kong we put a large amount of ginger in hot cola.

In Brazil we dissolve tapioca powder and make it into soup, adding garlic or other vegetables.

④

The way to cure a cold differs not only by country, but also by family, doesn't it? In the upcoming season I definitely want to avoid getting the flu or stomach flu!

If that's the case, then do the following.

- Wash your hands and gargle often
- Wear a mask
- Humidify and keep the room warm
- Get plenty of sleep and nutrition
- Get a flu vaccination, etc.

If you still catch a cold, then get sufficient rest.
