Countermeasures for Hay Fever

When spring comes, many people worry about "cedar and cypress hay fever."

During the pollen season, information about pollen in the air is also available in the weather forecasts, so be sure to check the news and try to prevent the symptoms as soon as possible.

Reference Material: Government Public Relations Online

◇ When going out

① Wear a mask

A mask that fits your face, is easy to breathe through, is disposable, and made of non-woven fabric is recommended.

② Wear glasses

There are glasses for hay fever, but the amount of pollen in your eyes will be reduced just by using regular glasses.

③ Wear clothes that are resistant to pollen

Don't wear clothing that attracts pollen, such as wool, but choose cotton, polyester, etc. By wearing a hat, you can reduce the amount of pollen on your head.

◇ When coming home

① Don't let pollen in your home

Remove the pollen from your clothes before entering your home.

② Gargle and wash your face

When you return home, be sure to gargle and wash your face to remove the pollen from your face.

◇ When in your home

① When circulating the air in your home, open your windows just slightly and only for a short time.

② Clean to reduce the pollen indoors.

We asked Anna of Poland about Warsaw, a famous Polish person, meeting Japanese people, her hobby, work, a message, etc.

Dzień dobry! (Hello in Polish)

Anna came to Japan 11 years ago.

UCIA: What kind of place is Warsaw, your hometown?

Anna: Warsaw suffered great damage from war and other events, but it has since been rebuilt and has a historic townscape and beautiful park. It is the capital of Poland and a vibrant town.

UCIA: Who is a famous Polish person?

Anna: Curie (Maria Skłodowska) who was born in Warsaw. When she was 24-years-old, she went to Paris to study radioactivity. She won the first Nobel Prize in physics for a woman in 1903 and the Nobel Prize in chemistry in 1911. She did research that is the basis of modern physics and medicine.

UCIA: How did you first meet Japanese people?

Anna: When I was studying in China, I became friends with my Japanese roommate. I depended on that friend when I came to hang out in Kansai for the first time and did a homestay. I was moved by the "Omizutori" event at Todaiji Temple, which brings spring to Nara.

UCIA: What kind of hobby do you have?

Anna: Twenty-eight years ago, I started learning pottery in Taiwan and continued to study pottery in a pottery club. I built a workshop in Mashiko and also acquired a gas kiln. I am allowed to have tea cups that I make be sold at a Polish friend's shop. I hope to make pottery my job in the future.

UCIA: What kind of work did you do?

Anna: Up until now, I have been working on a creating a website to introduce Polish culture. This website is available in many languages, including English, Japanese, Korean, Chinese, and Taiwanese, so please take a look at it. (HP: culture.pl)

UCIA: Please provide a message to foreign residents in Japan.

Anna: I would like people who can speak Japanese, but are not ashamed to speak it, to speak Japanese actively since they are in Japan.

UCIA: Anna, Dziękuję! (Thank you!)
